Dear Colleague:

This mailing includes the Call for Papers for the 43rd Annual Meeting of the Academy of Aphasia. This year we will be meeting in the historical, European town of Amsterdam. The Academy of Aphasia welcomes submissions of original experimental, clinical, theoretical and historical research from any field that contributes to the study of aphasia, including Speech-Language Pathology, Psychology, Neurology, Neuroscience, Linguistics, History and Computational Modeling. The Academy of Aphasia encourages submissions for platform papers and poster presentations as well as proposals for symposia that bring together researchers from different laboratories reporting on a common research theme. Submissions are accepted from both members and non-members of the Academy of Aphasia and all submissions are given equal consideration.

You will find enclosed the General Guidelines for Submission for the electronic submission of abstracts as well as a copy of the Abstract Information Sheet that should accompany your submission. A separate information sheet must accompany each abstract and must be received by 12:00 noon Central Standard Time (CST) on Friday April 1, 2005. All of these forms are also available on the Academy web site (<http://www.academyofaphasia.org>). Although it is discouraged, you may bypass electronic submission and mail a 3.5" floppy disk with 8 hard copies of your abstract to:

Academy Of Aphasia Administrative Services
c/o Executive Administrative Services
Francis Laven (Director)
Post Office Box 26532
